	Risk factors are characteristics of individuals, their families, schools, and community environments that are associated with increases in alcohol and other drug use, delinquency, teen pregnancy, school dropout, and violence. The following factors increase the likelihood that children and young people may develop such problem behaviors.	Substance abuse	Depression/anxiety	Delinquency	Teen pregnancy	School dropout	Violence	Factors associated with reduced potential for drug use are called protective factors. They encompass family, social, psychological, and behavioral characteristics that can provide a buffer for young people. These factors mitigate the effects of risk factors.	SDS is a synthesis of three existing theories of criminology (control, social learning, and differential association). It incorporates the results of research on risk and protective factors for problem behaviors and a developmental perspective of age, specific problem, and prosocial behavior. It is based on the assumption that children learn behaviors.
