Documentary filmmaker Gabriela Martínez will present Agents of Change: A Legacy of Feminist Research, Teaching and Activism at the University of Oregon, a film she produced with Sonia De La Cruz. The film, developed for the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Center for the Study of Women in Society, the Department of Women's and Gender Studies, and the ASUO Women's Center, chronicles the history of these units within the broader context of the Women's Rights Movement. By 1970, women faculty members across universities in the United States were beginning to teach the first women's studies courses, while also taking on the fight for pay equity and affirmative action in hiring. This presentation features film clips and discussion, as well as insights into the making of the documentary.

Dr. Martínez is the associate director of the Center for the Study of Women in Society (CSWS) and an associate professor in the University of Oregon School of Journalism and Communication. She has produced, directed or edited more than ten ethnographic and social documentaries, including Keep Your Eyes on Guatemala, Ñakaj, Textiles in the Southern Andes, Mamacoca, and Qoyllur Rit'i: A Woman's Journey.

Sponsored by the University of Oregon Center for the Study of Women in Society and the UO School of Journalism and Communication's George S. Turnbull Portland Center.
